

Psychology

This course will examine the principles of human behavior emphasizing how people learn and perceive their environment. Also covered will be motivation, selected topics in developmental psychology, child and adolescent topics, emotion, behavior disorders, and adjustment. Through this course students will gain a better understanding about personality. This course will involve some experimentation and research by the student.

Program

Social Studies

Credits 0.5